Penn State University students gathered around televisions at the campus' HUB-Robeson Center Facility Thursday awaiting CNN coverage of Louis Freeh's report were stunned when, just before its 9 a.m. release, the channel suddenly switched to public access, according to reports. A Penn State blog later reported Freeh's press conference was aired on the public access channel.

'Success with honor' more like success by cover-up

► Freeh report blasts Penn State, says fear of bad publicity guided actions in Jerry Sandusky abuse case ► Stunned alumni call for repudiation of Joe Paterno's namesake on campus ► But others say let JoePa rest in peace

Penn State leaders, including late football coach Joe Paterno, covered up Jerry Sandusky's sexual abuse of children for years, showing a callous disregard for the victims to protect a multimillion-dollar football program, former FBI director Louis Freeh said on Thursday.

Freeh also singled out the former university president, Graham Spanier, and said a collective failure to stop Sandusky allowed the former assistant coach to continue luring victims for more than a decade.

The report revealed the extent to which Paterno and others conspired to cover up allegations against Sandusky as far back as 1998, delivering a new blow to the reputation of a football program with the motto "success with honor."

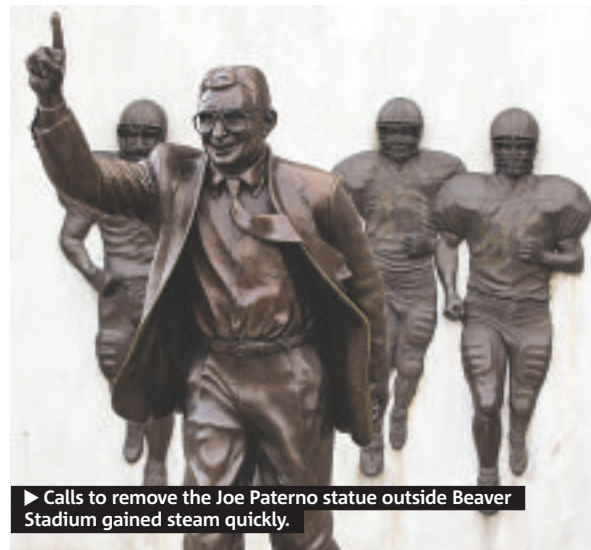

The findings also provided new fuel for lawsuits — one expert predicted the university will eventually shell out more than $100 million in damages. Victims and their advocates have long complained they were sacrificed by university leaders for the cash and prestige generated by Penn State football.

"They were morally bankrupt and wrong legally," said Thomas Kline, a lawyer who represents Victim 5 in the case.

Freeh blamed Spanier, Paterno, former Athletic Director Tim Curley and former university vice president Gary Schultz for working in concert on a cover-up that began as early as 1998. That was the year university police investigated allegations of abuse, but let Sandusky off with a warning.

"Even though they all knew about the 1998 incident, the best they could muster to protect Sandusky's victims was to ask Sandusky not to bring his 'guests' into the Penn State facilities," Freeh said, adding that bad publicity would have upset donors and damaged the Penn State brand.

Other allegations surfaced in 2000 and 2001, when adults reported witnessing Sandusky molesting boys in the locker room showers.

The report could influence Penn State as it prepares for potential civil lawsuits. The university has already invited victims to try to resolve claims against the school.

Curley and Schultz have pleaded not guilty to charges of perjury and failure to report suspected abuse in the case. Spanier and Paterno were not charged. REUTERS

Grad reaction

Unhappy Valley

Penn State grads across the nation reeled Thursday, in the wake of the damning Freeh report alleging that iconic football coach Joe Paterno essentially turned a blind eye to the Jerry Sandusky child sex abuse scandal.

Some former Happy Valleyites are even calling for JoePa's iconic statue on the campus to be taken down —

► No longer so beloved immediately.

"He knew or should have known and did NOTHING. Children suffered," PSU grad Michael Brint wrote on the Penn State Alumni Facebook page on Thursday. "Rip the statue down NOW."

"St Joepa your Bronze Statue and halo are a fraud ... tear it down," wrote Douglas Rutkowski on another Penn State Alumni Facebook page.

But other Penn State grads were skeptical of the report's findings and voiced continued loyalty to the deceased coach.

Paterno died in January of lung cancer, two months after he was fired during the sex-abuse scandal.

"He was the football coach. He wasn't like, the Penn State day care supervisor. He had a very specific job to do, and he certainly did that to the best of his ability," said 2002 Penn State graduate Patrick Kelley, now a lawyer in Erie, Pa.

"Even if somebody f—ed up once, you can't and shouldn't erase all the good things they did," he added.

The 267-page report was written and investigated by the Freeh, Sporkin and Sullivan law firm. Using a series of e-mails and other documents, Freeh came to the conclusion that Paterno was aware of at least two allegations that Sandusky abused young boys over a period of several years

- @DTF_Brian: They shouldn't take down Paterno's statue, just leave it alone and don't do nothing about it. That's what he would want and did little to prevent the abuse.

The report also named Penn State President Graham Spanier, senior vice president Gary Schultz and athletic director Timothy Curley as culpable.

"Four of the most powerful people at the Pennsylvania State University ... failed to protect against a child sexual predator harming children for over a decade," read the report. "They exhibited a striking lack of empathy for Sandusky's victims."

Sandusky, 68, was convicted last month of sexually abusing 10 boys. He now faces 373 years in prison.

$2 million worth of illegal ivory netted

PHOTOS BY MILES DIXON/METRO

► Officials said the items shown here probably represented the deaths of 25 elephants. Many were small tusks, indicating they were from small elephants, one wildlife expert noted.

It's not hard to buy illegal ivory on the streets of New York City.

In fact, two men hawked hundreds of trinkets made from the tusks of dead, poached elephants out of two Midtown stores for years.

On Thursday, law enforcement officials announced they cleared both shops of ivory products, which amounted to the largest cache of black-market ivory loot in three decades.

Manhattan District Attorney Cyrus Vance said two men pleaded guilty to illegally selling the ivory. Their inventory included more than $2 million worth of tusks, statues, Buddhas, intricate trinkets and jewelry.

"The black market for ivory is booming," Vance said. "It's booming here."

Mukesh Gupta, 67, and Johnson Jung-Chien Lu, 56, pleaded guilty Thursday in a deal that kept them out of jail. But they must pay tens of thousands in fines.

Gupta sold his wares out of Raja Jewels on 7 West 45th Street, and Lu sold out of New York Jewelry Mart at 26 West 46th Street, according to

► A puzzle made from tusks

Poaching a growing problem

The Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora reported in June that elephant poaching is the worst it's been in a decade. Between 2002 and 2006, four out of every 10 dead elephants worldwide were poached, according to the district attorney's office, but now that number is eight out of 10. The tusks are used to make items like piano keys and jewelry. ● METRO/AB

Vance.

The ivory was likely poached illegally from elephants in Central and East Africa, officials said. The items themselves were made in Hong Kong.

They made their way to Midtown, where customers likely had no idea they were buying illegal merchandise, officials said.

It is illegal under state law to sell anything made of endangered or threatened wildlife species, Vance said. However, a vendor can sell ivory if they have a permit from the state proving that the ivory pre-dates the species being on the endangered species list.

But the two men did not have permits, Vance said. Gupta will pay $45,000, and Lu $10,000, to the Wildlife Conservation Society to use to train people protecting the elephant population.

Both defendants' attorneys stressed to Metro that the problem was only a licensing issue, which is now, after the pleas, fully resolved.

Happening to New York animals, too

Peter Fanelli at the state's Department of Environmental Conservation said the DEC routinely arrests people for selling ivory, but that these arrests were "by far the largest in size and value we have made in the last three decades."

New York's animals are also illegally poached. Copperhead snakes, snapping turtle eggs and black bear gallbladders are all shipped to Asia, Fanelli said. ● METRO/AB

Woman raped in Bronx hotel

DCPI

A tourist was raped in her Bronx hotel room early Thursday morning by a man she'd met on the subway late Wednesday night, according to a police report.

The 33-year-old woman first met her alleged rapist on the train at East 14th Street and Union Square sometime before midnight Wednesday. The two chatted briefly on the train, according to police.

Once the train got into the East Tremont area of the Bronx, the woman got off and walked to her hotel, cops said. The victim heard a knock at her hotel door at 4 a.m.

A police report described the suspect as a 30-year-old black man wearing a gray Chicago Bulls hat, white T-shirt and red shorts.

The Timeshare Backyard, on Ludlow Street between Orchard and Rivington, is available to rent for $100 per hour with a minimum rental of two hours on Saturdays and Sundays, though weekday rates are available, too.

The outdoor space can hold up to 30 people and comes equipped for your enjoyment with a grill, hammocks, lounge chairs, squirt guns, sun umbrellas, picnic benches and "trashy mags." ● METRO/CG

Yellow cab fare hike approved

NEW YORK. Get ready to fork over more for taxi trips!

The nine-member Taxi and Limousine Commission voted Thursday to approve a 17 percent fare hike for New York's taxi cabs. The increase would go into effect as early as September. It is the first taxi fare hike in six years.

Currently, all cabs have an initial rate of $3, with 40 cents for each additional half mile or 60 seconds of being either stopped or moving in slow traffic. The new increase would only apply to the per mile charge, raising it to 50 cents.

The average trip, costing about $12.25, would now be $14, said Allan Fromberg, a spokesman for the TLC.

LIVE AFTER DEATH

▶ From left: Ambha Love, Wendy Wilson and Matt Jardine, the spawn of Beach Boys, honor their fathers' music with California Saga; Adam Lambert sings with Queen guitarist Brian May and drummer Roger Taylor; and the talk of Coachella, Virtual 2Pac, are all innovative approaches to maintaining musicians' legacies.

It's only fitting that the first words the world heard from an amazingly lifelike rendering of Tupac Shakur were, "What the f— is up?"

Many wondered the same thing as they saw a rapper who had died 16 years ago on the stage at the Coachella festival.

The answer to the question posed by the entity now known as Virtual 2Pac is this: Combining music and technology, we've arrived at a crossroads of future and past.

The generation growing up in the information age has only known a time where every piece of recorded music is at its disposal. This accessibility has created listeners with wider ranges of musical taste and knowledge than ever before, but also a sense that being able to hear or see whatever you want, whenever you want, is a right — not a privilege.

Many artists from the dawn of the recorded era are past retirement age — and even more have died — so the ability to witness these acts live has traditionally presented some difficulty. But within the past year, concertgoers have been able to experience performances that previously seemed unthinkable.

Roger Taylor of Queen says he had to do something to reawaken the sounds of his former band because he knew audiences wanted to hear it. In addition to playing a few gigs with Queen guitarist Brian May and Adam Lambert, Taylor recruited members online and became the musical director of something called the Queen Extravaganza. He taught these young musicians himself how to play his songs and sent them out on tour. Could this sort of apprenticeship be a new model for passing down sounds? Will other bands follow suit?

"I'd be interested in seeing if they did," says Taylor. "It takes a lot of work. ... I can say that I think we've been very lucky in terms of who we've found. We have two of the most genius guitar players, and we have four amazing singers and a great rhythm section."

All of this for a band who had four members while active.

On the Beach Boys' current tour, they, too, have found that augmentation has helped bring their recordings to life in a way that wasn't previously possible. Guitarist Al Jardine says having so many more people onstage has been a bonus: "For the first time in the history of our music-making, we've had enough people on stage to do all the parts."

'How I wish ...'

Damian Darlington is the musical director, guitarist and singer of a Pink Floyd tribute act called Brit Floyd. Among his credentials: playing a birthday party for Floyd guitarist David Gilmour. While performing "Comfortably Numb," the tribute band was joined by Floyd keyboardist Rick Wright, who died in '08.

"It's very sad. A lot of these people seem to be passing away," says Darlington. "That's all part of the attraction of tribute bands, I suppose. There's less and less chance as the years go by to actually see the original people play this music, but there's still the demand."

This isn't the only measure in place to ensure Beach Boys music lives on. A group called California Saga, who played their fourth gig this week, has been formed by the kids of Beach Boys. The group is comprised of Jardine's sons, Mike Love's son and daughter, Carl Wilson's son, Dennis Wilson's son and Wilson Phillips singers Carnie and Wendy Wilson, who are the daughters of Brian Wilson. They specialize in deep cuts from their dads' catalog. Their first official gig was opening for the Beach Boys — the ultimate seal of approval.

What's next?

Elvis is back in the building

Ed Ulbrich, chief creative officer of Digital Domain, the company that created Virtual 2Pac, says his company's next project is fit for a king.

"Right now, we're focusing on Elvis," he says. "We're certainly having other conversations, but Elvis Presley is next up for us."

Ulbrich is tight-lipped when it comes to revealing those other potential acts. When asked what musician he would bring to the stage if he had his choice, he says, "Whomever I would love, we've already contacted."

So what can Ulbrich divulge about Elvis 2.0?

"Let's put it this way," he says, considering his words, "what we're planning in tribute to The King needs to be nothing less than spectacular and epic. So we are creating and designing something quite enormous and grand."

Weekend recipe

New England lobster rolls

Sitting at a picnic table in the gravel parking lot of a seafood shack, stuffing a lobster roll in your face, is a summer ritual in New England. And while what you mix with the lobster for the filling is the subject of debate, one thing is not: Don't skimp on the lobster! This recipe contains the three most important ingredients for a lobster roll: steamed lobster, real mayo (not that sweet salad dressing) and chopped celery. Piled into a buttered, toasted, top-split hot dog bun and served next to a cup of clam chowder, it's a little taste of "summah" on the Cape in your own backyard.

Ingredients for the lobster salad:

- 1 tablespoon kosher salt, plus more for seasoning
- 1 (1½-pound) whole live lobster
- ¼ cup small-dice celery (from about 1 medium celery stalk)
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- Freshly ground black pepper

To assemble:

- 1 tablespoon unsalted butter, at room temperature
- 2 top-split hot dog buns

Instructions

for the lobster salad:

1 Fill a large pot with one inch of water and stir in the measured salt. Add a steamer rack to the pot. (If you don't have a steamer rack, lightly bunch a long piece of foil so that it looks like a rope. Then make a figure eight out of the foil rope and set it in the pot.)

2 Bring the water to a boil over high heat. Add the lobster to the pot head-first, cover with a

► This summertime staple doesn't just need to be enjoyed while vacationing at the beach.

Notes

- Special equipment: You will need a seafood cracker for this recipe.
- What to buy: If you purchase precooked lobster meat, you will need about 1 cup of chopped meat (about 5 to 6 ounces).

tight-fitting lid and return the water to a full boil. Reduce the heat and cook at a gentle boil until the lobster is bright red, which takes about 14 minutes. Check its doneness by pulling on an antenna: If the antenna comes out with no resistance, the lobster is done. Remove the lobster to a rimmed baking sheet and let it sit until it's cool enough to handle.

3 Using your hands, twist and separate the tail from the body. Twist and remove both of the claws where they meet the lobster body; set the claws aside. Discard the head and torso.

4 Starting with the tail, remove the small, wispy flippers on the underside of the shell. Using a fork, pierce the exposed tail meat and slowly twist and pull it out of the shell in one piece. Rinse any white debris off of the tail meat and set it aside on a cutting board. Discard the shell of the tail.

5 Gently wiggle and pull the smaller part of the pincer shell off each claw. Using a seafood cracker, gently crack the claws, remove the meat and set it aside on the cutting board.

6 Check the meat for any cartilage or shell and discard it. Coarsely chop the reserved meat and place it in a medium bowl.

(You should have about 1 cup.)

7 Add the celery and mayonnaise, season with salt and pepper, and stir to combine. Cover tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 30 minutes and up to six hours.

To assemble:

1 Spread the butter on the outside of the buns. Heat a medium frying pan over medium heat for about three minutes.

2 Place the buns in the pan butter-side down and toast until golden brown, about 1 to 1½ minutes. Flip and toast the second side until golden brown. Divide the lobster salad between the buns and serve immediately.

'Ice Age 4' review

Not so evolved

'Ice Age: Continental Drift'
Directors: Steve Martino, Mike Thurmeier
Cast: John Leguizamo, Ray Romano, Denis Leary
Rating: PG Grade: 000000

We love the "Simpsons" short that plays before "Ice Age: Continental Drift." It's a fun thriller for kids with jokes that parents and film geeks will love. In fact, we wanted more of that and less "Ice Age." The main feature is nicely animated but saddled with a story so by-the-book it feels like it would have been old hat even in the Ice Age.

Main character Manny (Ray Romano) is not aided by a lazy script, which feels like it was run through the Cliche-O-Matic. The continental divide device is novel, but the theme — family and friends mean everything — has been done better. Couple that with jokes that feel tacked on — apropos of nothing, a bird asks if water tastes like boogers when mammoths drink through their trunks — and you're left with a movie that is as lifeless as the expression on Manny's face.

As nemesis Captain Gutt, Peter Dinklage is horrifying and scuzzy — in a good way. Also horrifying: They still have 20,000 years of history and sequel potential to go until Manny and pals retire.

► Brooklyn-based Evidence, A Dance Company brings Ronald K. Brown's high-minded pieces to the Joyce

Since its founding in 1984, Ronald K. Brown's Evidence, a Brooklyn-based troupe, has prioritized community in its choreography and performance. Resolutely refusing to exploit sexuality, the dancers celebrate and suffer, strut and support one another. Brown's style combines black vernacular dance with African movement; the good performers jump and spin and display their full hearts — shoulders back, chests lifted.

A whole evening of this high-minded stuff, even set to the infectious music of Stevie Wonder, wears thin. Watching Brown and his nine dancers at the Joyce, we thought it might be more fun to be onstage with them, boogying down, than to sit in the house where too-loud sound levels, in both recorded and live accompaniment, assaulted our ears.

In the current Broadway production of Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," which Brown choreographed, the simple movements performed by the God-fearing denizens of Catfish Row seem the perfect solution. The same concerns play less well stripped of dramatic context.

Brown's new "On Earth Together/Everybody at the Table," assembled from pieces he's made around the country, toggles between scenes of street life in the city, costumed in faded blue cotton, and mysterious groups of mourners in Omotayo Wunmi Olaiya's sweeping dark formal wear. The street scenes incorporate mime: a guy photographing others, a drug deal going down, a stop-and-frisk. The alternating, heavier sections evoke early modern dance, with the community pulling together to sustain individual members. But the movement vocabulary grows repetitive. Dramatic structure is almost totally lacking.

The audience opening night ate it up. Catch this bill Friday and Saturday evenings, and a program of older works at Saturday's matinee.

Indie spotlight

'Easy Money'

Daniel Espinosa ("Safe House") directs this movie about an entanglement of sex, drugs and violence based on the international best-selling novel "Snabba Cash" by Jens Lapidus. In order to keep up with the facade of his double life, a low-class business student falls into a life of drug crime.

'The Imposter'

This true-life story about a young boy who went missing for three years takes its viewers through a series of strange twists and turns. When police locate him thousands of miles away in Spain, his body reeks of torture — but his new accent and unfamiliar features suggest that maybe he's not who they thought he was.

'Alps'

This movie wraps around an unusual premise: a "dead-for-hire" company. A nurse, a paramedic, a gymnast and a coach operate a business in which they impersonate dead people to help their clients — friends and relatives of the deceased — through the grieving process.

'Trishna'

Freida Pinto stars as Trishna, a young Indian woman who accepts work from a rich real estate worker. Their interactions develop into a tragic story of unlikely romance.

'Ballplayer: Pelotero'

Bobby Valentine, the manager of the Boston Red Sox, was the executive producer of this compelling documentary about two top baseball prospects in the Dominican Republic.

'Union Square'

Union Square is the setting for an unexpected rendezvous between two sisters — one who is preparing for marriage, and the other who is on the verge of a breakdown.

MURPHY'S LAW

► Irish actor Cillian Murphy discusses his latest thriller, 'Red Lights' ► What YouTube taught him

► Cillian Murphy's pretty face gets roughed up in "Red Lights," which hits theaters this weekend.

Cillian Murphy's crystal blue eyes, high cheekbones and warm Irish brogue are well enough to beguile even the casual fan. And though of late he's been known more for playing the baddie in the likes of "Inception" and "In Time," his latest turn, in Rodrigo Cortes' film "Red Lights," finds him back in good graces. He plays Tom Buckley, a scientist and paranormal investigator who goes toe to toe with a renowned psychic (played by, ahem, Robert DeNiro) who Buckley suspects is a fraud.

Murphy's character, though out to disprove those who claim to be clairvoyant, has a

"If you have nothing else to do in your life except to make a coin roll over your fingers, you'll do it." MURPHY fascination with magic and sleight of hand. That left Murphy with the task of mastering a few slick tricks like the old pull-the-quarter-out-of-your-ear that your grandpa used to do.

"I just went and learned it and you know, you can learn anything off YouTube these days," Murphy says. "To get that fast, [it took] maybe two months. If you have nothing else to do in your life except to make a coin roll over your fingers, you'll do it."

Since Murphy has starred in his fair share of mind-benders, does the actor perhaps have a fascination with science fiction?

"Personally, I would be in the skeptic camp — which is not to say that I'm a cynic, but just that I have yet to see something that I believe is beyond our comprehension," he says regarding the paranormal. "I'm open and I'm curious, because you have to be if you're an actor. In my own life, I don't go to mediums or read horoscopes. I'm just kind of boringly rational, I'm afraid."

With the final installment of Christopher Nolan's Batman series to be released next week, Murphy keeps mum about whether his character from the first film, the Scarecrow, will make a cameo in "The Dark Knight Rises," but he does have high praise for the filmmaker.

"It's very rare that you come across someone that talented," Murphy says. "I feel blessed to have worked with him."

Talking points

Steven Tyler resigns from 'Idol'

"American Idol" just got a little less rock 'n' roll. After two seasons on Fox's reality singing competition, Steven Tyler is stepping away from the judging table to return to his band, Aerosmith, full-time.

"After some long ... hard ... thoughts ... I've decided it's time for me to let go of my mistress 'American Idol' before she boils my rabbit," Tyler said in a statement delivered by Fox. "I strayed from my first love, Aerosmith, and I'm back — but instead of begging on my hands and knees, I've got two fists in the air and I'm kicking the door open with my band. The next few years are going to be dedicated to kicking some serious a—, the ultimate in auditory takeover. ... On Nov. 6, we are unleashing our new album, 'Music from Another Dimension' on the Earth, moon, Mars and way beyond the stars. ... 'Idol' was over-the-top fun, and I loved every minute of it. ... Now it's time to bring rock back. ERMAHGERD."

No replacement for Tyler has been announced.

Tatum not getting dressed anytime soon

Channing Tatum isn't surprised his semi-autobiographical male stripper movie, "Magic Mike" is a success — and he's already got a sequel planned. "We're working on the concept now," he tells the U.K. edition of Glamour magazine. "We want to flip the script and make it bigger." Meanwhile, Tatum is more than happy to throw his hat in to the ring when it comes to who should star in the film adaptation of the steamy hit novel "Fifty Shades of Grey" — under the condition that he co-star with real-life wife Jenna Dewan. "I'd only be allowed if my wife was Ana."

More trouble in the Moore household?

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

► Demi and Tallulah were all smiles in 2010.

After her split from Ashton Kutcher and subsequent rehab trip, Demi Moore has been spotted out and about looking pretty great — or at least alive enough.

But it seems not all is well with her family just yet.

"There's a wedge between Demi and her girls," a source tells Us Weekly of her daughters, Rumer, Scout and Tallulah.

According to the source, Demi didn't speak to them at Tallulah's high school graduation last month.

"Demi is beside herself over the situation," a family friend tells RadarOnline.com. "She hasn't spoken to Scout, Rumer or Tallulah for weeks now. They won't return any of her calls, emails or texts."

Rich people, take note: If your teenagers don't need your car for the weekend, there is no limit to how long they can sulk.

► Pattinson and Garfield aren't one and the same.

Where's Drac when you need him?

Andrew Garfield might be young and British with hair you want to shove your face in, but don't compare the "Amazing Spider-Man" star to Robert Pattinson.

"The truth is, Andrew can't stand Rob. He hates that they're put in the same category because they're both English and around the same age," a source tells Us Weekly. "Andrew considers himself a 'serious actor' and sees Rob as the equivalent of a cheesy boy-bander because of 'Twilight.'"

Spider-Man vs. Edward Cullen: Why do we have a feeling this ends in a snuggle pile of fangs?

How old now?

Not surprisingly, reigning Blondie-in-Chief Kate Upton didn't go unnoticed at the Detroit Tigers game last week. Now, her reps are on the defensive, telling TMZ that whatever she was photographed drinking wasn't beer.

Why does it matter? Because apparently Kate Upton is a mere 20 years old, and this whole time has been letting us creep on her — and pretending to enjoy it! — while sober.

Seriously — someone buy this girl a drink, stat.

Christian Instructor Man Hee Lee testifies the Highest Truth at The Times center - Matthew 13 and 24

Website: www.worlddopenseminar.com
Email: beautifulscj@gmail.com
Admission: Free
Event date: July 14, 2012 at 3:00 PM
Event Place: The Times center
Seminar Instructor: Christian Instructor Man Hee Lee of the Republic of Korea

Christian Instructor Man Hee Lee will be testifying to the fulfillment of the New Testament prophecies—specifically Matthew 13 and 24, and the entire book of Revelation—according to what has been seen, heard, and commanded based on the 5W's and 1H (who, what, where, when, why, how). The gospel of heaven, Jesus' prophecies of the New Testament, was preached in Europe to the West, and was testified to all the people of the world according to the prophecy of Matthew 24:14: "and this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come."

This testimony is given to those who believe in the prophecies of the Bible and have been waiting the instructor to the fulfillment. Having started in the Republic of Korea, the fulfillment will now go out to the ends of the earth.

Every month in Korea, more than 3,000 people gather to listen to the Revealed Word from Instructor Lee, and that number is growing rapidly. Pastors from 28 different countries who heard this news invited the instructor to come to Europe. Because of the high demand, Instructor Lee is returning to Europe on July 4 for the second time in the past 2 months. The fulfillment of the New Testament is the fulfillment of God's purpose and the hope of all humanity. The world of faith in America must open up its eyes to his testimony as he is invited to come to America. America cannot wait any longer.

A true believer who believes in God, Jesus, and the promise of the Bible must hear these words, and everyone who attends will not regret it. God's will, the purpose of the New Testament, is completed through this.

As seating is limited, please reserve your seat at www.worlddopenseminar.com via the contact page. Visit the website to learn more about Instructor Lee's remarkable life, testimony, and worldwide impact.

Anyone who is a believer will regret it if he or she does not hear it nor believe it.

TV watch list

ANDREW ECCLES/USA NETWORK

'Political Animals'

DRAMA. Sigourney Weaver plays the matriarch of a Washington, D.C., dynasty locked in a never-ending power struggle. The "Alien" star is the former first lady and current secretary of state whose philandering ex-husband (Ciaran Hinds) serves as a lingering source of scandal. Then there are her sons — the golden boy (James Wolk) and the screwup (Sebastian Stan) — who are forced to make their own sacrifices for the sake of the family name when a dogged reporter (Carla Gugino) reveals she has damning information about the clan. Mini-series premiere, Sunday, 10 p.m., USA

'Breaking Bad'

DRAMA. "Breaking Bad" creator Vince Gilligan has always said the story of chemistry teacher-turned-meth dealer Walter White (Bryan Cranston) was the progression of Mr. Chips becoming Scarface. That arc reached its high in last season's finale, when Walt blew up his lab — and bad dude boss. As the series enters its final season on Sunday, the fallout is the kind of shockingly ruthless, yet remarkably human drama that makes this one of the best series on television. Season premiere, Sunday, 10 p.m., AMC

'Leverage'

DRAMA. Timothy Hutton's Robin Hood-esque criminal and his band of merry men (and women) return to take down a corrupt aviation exec. Season premiere, Sunday, 8 p.m., TNT

Lopez keeps it real

► Honesty is the best policy for the comedian, who makes a return to HBO with another stand-up special

George Lopez returns to HBO this Saturday, back for his third special for the network, "It's Not Me, It's You." As for the cheeky title? Lopez says a bunch of ideas were tossed around, all derived from that simple phrase, which strikes a chord with him.

"In our society, honesty has taken a back seat to people withholding truths. They always accept responsibility when they know it's the other person. They say 'it's not you, it's me' because they don't want to upset anything. Direct is always better."

For the star, whose résumé includes movie, sitcom, talk show and stand-up work, coming back to live comedy is like coming home.

"You know, in doing [television], they hire you to be you, and there's somebody that tells you you're being too much of you, or 'be less of this,' or 'do less of that,' or 'that's gonna upset people.' But stand-up is still the freest form of expression."

It's worked so far for the performer. But Lopez already has his sights set on an alter-

► George Lopez's stand-up special, "It's Not Me, It's You," airs Saturday at 10 p.m. on HBO.

Ladies man

The performer says he's especially grateful for the support from two particular women in his life.

► Sandra Bullock: "Sandra is a tremendous woman," he says of the actress, who executive-produced "George Lopez" after lamenting about the lack of Latinos on TV. "I don't think I would have had an opportunity to create, had it not been for her."

► His ex-wife, Ann Serrano: Though the newly single star says he is "not as friendly" with his ex these days, he's "honored to be alive and creating" thanks to her 2005 kidney donation to him.

"I believe that Magic Johnson would be a tremendous mayor, because he's such a great businessman and well-loved in the community. But if he chooses not to, in years in the future, I would not be opposed to making a run." On his agenda? School reform, spending limits and ... potholes?

"I have lovely rims on my cars that continue to be abused by potholes and the infrastructure of the town," he says. "[I saw] a pothole that had a cone in the hole — like, they didn't even put the cone outside of it, they put it in it. I didn't realize tar had become such a commodity."

Gov't gumption good for Gitmo'ing gangsters?

RE: "THE PERSISTENCE OF SHEETS IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING": Bravo Diane, I agree 100%. Unfortunately the KKK does still exist. Your label of them reminds me of the defense authorization bill that was signed not long ago. In specific, the ability for the military to detain indefinitely without trial if one is labeled as a terrorist. I was initially uncomfortable with the bill, as it is a large boot stepping on our rights. After giving further thought, I believe that this isn't for the general law-abiding citizen to be concerned with. It's for the much bigger threats to our society. You know, the organized groups that routinely conduct shenanigans? That be the KKK, MS13, Bloods, Crips, Mongols, Hells Angels and the like. I believe that these groups are just across the line of being labeled domestic terrorists and that they will be the first to see this law go active. The language is already in police reports — terroristic threats, etc. One more quick adjustment to the laws, and they are all outta here. Something like that happening wouldn't have us too compassionate, I'd imagine. Believing this allows me to swallow that horse pill of a violation of my rights.

Experience makes up for low wages

the minimum wage debate that's been absent in this week's letters section is the benefit of getting on-the-job experience at a young age. Many employers will overlook education in favor of some training. But how do kids get jobs if the minimum wage is too high? They're not productive enough to warrant the $7.25/hour — but of course, it's perfectly legal to work for free at an unpaid internship. The minimum wage takes away the ability of young and unskilled workers to get hired at lower-paying jobs and begin learning valuable work skills.

SEEDS OF FAILURE": To Raymond Collins: Nice of you to "partially" blame Republicans — 99.99% is still "partially"! You say Clinton forced the government to give loans to those who couldn't repay? What caused the 2008 recession is that Republican-buddy bankers did that, and then bet against their own and each others' loans! Then you ridicule Obama's "tired old ideas"? Lowering taxes on the rich is the Republicans' only idea, which is not only tired and old but has failed very miserably many times over. The reason Obama hasn't fixed everything is that it takes longer to clean up a mess than to make it. What you fail to remember — you typical ignorant, nay-saying, Republican hypocrite — is that Obama was president of the Harvard Law Review, whereas both Bushes were presidents of the Lucky Sperm Club.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Should your path cross either deliberately or unintentionally with those in high places, you'll be treated with respect by those who can help you.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. When confronted with challenging developments, your best qualities are likely to emerge and handle things well. You'll be tough to beat once the will to win is awakened within you.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Your observations and comments will carry much more weight with your peers than usual. This is because your answers will benefit an entire group rather than any one individual.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Even though your imagination might go overboard at times and make you fearful, should you actually be confronted with a crisis, you'll be remarkably courageous and wise.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Finally some balance and order is likely to be restored in a situation that has been a bit unsettling lately. Everyone involved will want to improve things and make good things happen.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Press just a little bit harder, and something on which you've been working can be brought to a successful conclusion at this time. You'll be glad you put forth the extra effort.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Your mate or special someone will be most appreciative if you give his or her concerns the same priority that you give your own. You don't have to do more; just don't do less.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Although you'll be rather fortunate in terms of the rewards you derive from your labor, you need self-gratification as well as material gain. Make sure you do a good job.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Material objectives can be achieved through what you do for others. You'll be luckier working on behalf of family and cohorts than you will be striving solely for your own desires.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. You're likely to be quick on your feet and able to express yourself well. If you have any verbal presentations you need to make, now is the time.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Your financial pattern could at last turn the corner to a huge improvement. Those bright rays of hope will break through the toughest obstacles.

In the news

Griffin injured

The U.S. men's Olympic basketball team lost a big member Thursday. But more importantly to Los Angeles, they lost their superstar.

Blake Griffin turned his left knee during a scrimmage and was brought back to Los Angeles for an MRI to determine the extent of the injury. Anthony Davis, who was cut last week, has already been brought back to Las Vegas to be ready in case Griffin can't play.

► So what if they were drafted back in the mid-1990s? ► Camby, Kidd get their welcome to the Big Apple on Thursday ► Camby: 'I just couldn't flip and sign with Miami'

I LOVE THE '90s

Now that the league-wide moratorium on signing players has passed, the Knicks were finally allowed to introduce their two most famous additions — Jason Kidd and Marcus Camby.

And while critics scoffed at the thought that the Knicks have gotten older, everyone inside the facilities praised the fact that they've gotten wiser.

"Young teams don't win ti-

34 Combined years in the NBA for Jason Kidd (18) and Marcus Camby (16)

tles; veteran teams do most often," said coach Mike Woodson on Wednesday from Las Vegas. "That is a fact."

General manager Glen Grunwald has close ties with Camby as far back as when Camby was a burgeoning star for the Raptors.

"It's exciting when you get the chance to bring a former Knick like Marcus Camby back home," Grunwald said. "His defensive presence, shot-blocking ability and offensive board work will give us nice depth in our frontcourt."

Grunwald, who acquired Kidd via the mini mid-level exception and Camby through a trade with the Rockets, said he's "very happy" with the route the Knicks took in order to close the gap on the defending champion Miami Heat.

Kidd, who helped lead the Mavericks to the title in 2011, can also be serviceable as a steady floor leader and mentor for Jeremy Lin — when the Knicks, as expected, finally match the four-year, $28.88-million offer sheet he signed with the Rockets last week.

"It's about winning. And what we're measured on is trying to win a championship, [and] I think we have the ability to do that," said Kidd, adding he's also welcoming the chance to mentor Lin. "As you get older, I think you try to change your role as much as you try to improve your game. ... Hopefully [the biggest lesson he can teach is not to] play in the fifth gear all the time and to stay fresh late in games and the season."

Camby, who considered signing with the Heat, noted it was easy to choose New York over Miami, simply because of the heated rivalry both franchises had during his first tenure.

"After the [late '90s] wars that we went through versus the Heat, I couldn't just flip and sign with Miami," Camby said.

Knicks still weighing offers to Lin, Fields

► Lin

GETTY IMAGES

Lin, whose meteoric rise to fame last season only lasted 25 starts before a knee injury forced him out for the remainder of the year.

The Knicks have a tougher decision on their starting shooting guard in 2011-12. Landry Fields was signed to an offer sheet of three years and $20 million by the Raptors not long after the negotiating period opened July 1.

Fields averaged 8.8 points and 4.2 rebounds per game for the Knicks last season — a total many critics believe could be replaced by the recently re-sign J.R. Smith.

"Landry Fields and Jeremy Lin, those are two young players that we'd like back here," Grunwald said. "We'll make a final determination when we need to make that determination. Now is not the time."

● METRO/TW

Knicks general manager Grunwald said he hasn't "looked at the Rockets' offer sheet for Jeremy Lin yet," but added "it's likely" they'll match the offer.

In fact, it was no secret at Thursday's press conference to introduce Jason Kidd and Marcus Camby. Kidd talked openly, with Grunwald at his side, about mentoring

► Yankees adviser releases statement through team to make amends ► Says he's reached out to others named Yankees legend Reggie Jackson offered an apology Thursday to a multitude of targets offended by his controversial comments in this week's Sports Illustrated.

Jackson, who works as a Yankees special adviser, apologized first to Yankees third baseman Alex Rodriguez, whose records Jackson said were tainted by his admitted steroid use as a member of the Texas Rangers. He didn't, however, expressly name the slugger.

"In trying to convey my feelings about a few issues that I am passionate about, I made the mistake of naming some specific players," Jackson said in a statement released by the team late Thursday afternoon.

"I continue to have a strong relationship with the club and look forward to continuing in my role with the team."

"This was inappropriate and unfair to those players, some of which are very close friends of mine. I think there are ways to speak from the heart without hurting people, and I'm disappointed that I didn't take greater care in expressing my views."

Jackson also said in the interview he didn't believe fellow Hall of Famer Gary Carter, who led the Mets to a World Series title in 1986 and passed away in February of brain cancer, belonged in Cooperstown. He also named Kirby Puckett as someone who didn't belong in the Hall.

"I have been proactively reaching out to make personal apologies to those within the Hall of Fame community that I offended," Jackson said.

Gee to undergo surgery Friday

Mets pitcher Dillon Gee is scheduled to undergo surgery Friday on his right shoulder to repair a damaged artery after the discovery of a blood clot earlier this week.

Initial reports had Gee missing as little as a couple weeks after doctors at New York-Presbyterian broke up the clot with a catheter. But after the reports of damage to the artery surfaced, Gee was scheduled to undergo a surgery that could keep him out for the rest of the season, according to reports.

The surgery will be performed in St. Louis.

Gee had settled into the No. 4 spot in the rotation this season. Manager Terry Collins named Miguel Batista as his temporary replacement. ● METRO

Real Estate/Sale

PUBLISHERS NOTE

All real estate advertising herein is subject to the Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 and state and local fair housing laws. The Fair Housing Act makes it illegal to advertise any preference, limitations or discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, or national origin or an intention to make any such preference, limitation or discrimination. State or local laws may make unlawful advertising that discriminates on the basis of age, marital status, or sexual orientation. Metro US will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which violates the law. The law requires that all dwellings advertised be available on an equal opportunity basis. If you have any questions regarding housing discrimination, call the Long Island Housing Services at (1800) 660-6920 in Long Island or the Anti-Discrimination Center at (212) 346-7600 in New York City. To file a complaint call HUD toll-free at (800) 669-9777 or the New York City Commission on Human Rights at (212) 306-7500
